

Blitz Day October 24

The Crescent Hill Community Council and the Frankfort Avenue Business Association are organizing a fall neighborhood cleanup ("Blitz Day") on Saturday, October 24 and will be coordinating a cleanup of the Frankfort Avenue railroad easement between 9:30 and noon on Blitz Day. We'll provide the trash bags and tools, but we're counting on you for the labor. Please join us!

If you can't help on Frankfort Avenue, Blitz Day will be a good time to clean up your own block, including any alleys and overgrown areas. Trash collected that day can be put out for pick up during the week of October 26 as part of the city's Project Pickup.

Project Pickup normally takes three items or less from Crescent Hill residents on the fourth Monday of every month. Small items should be bundled, bagged or boxed, and tree limbs should be tied in bundles no longer than 4 feet and no heavier than 75 pounds. Project Pickup will not take construction materials or auto parts. Items must be placed where you put your regular garbage before 6:00 a.m. on the fourth Monday of the month.

Help us clean up Crescent Hill by doing your part on Blitz Day, October 24.

Library Provides Books to Homebound

Like to read, but can't get to the library because its physically impossible? The Louisville Free Public Library has a Homebound Program to serve you.

The free service is available to any resident of Jefferson County who is physically unable to come to the library. A volunteer delivers the materials once a month and also accepts requests for the next delivery. You can request books in regular or large print, magazines and audio cassettes.

Phone 561-8603, 561-8627 or the Crescent Hill Branch Library at 896-1012 for information or to volunteer.

The Crescent Hill Branch Library is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday through Saturday. It is located at 2762 Frankfort Avenue.

Recycle Your Telephone Directories

Don't throw away that old Yellow Pages directory. Recycle it into newsprint.

Used telephone books can be taken to special containers in the parking lots of any Kroger store in Louisville and Jefferson County between October 23 and 25 (Friday-Sunday) from noon to 6 p.m.

The books will be recycled into newsprint at a Tennessee paper mill from which The Courier-Journal purchases paper.

Walktoberfest and Move-A-Long to Travel Through Crescent Hill

Crescent Hill will be a popular place for walkers on Saturday, October 3, as two fundraisers will fill the streets.

The American Diabetes Association's Walktoberfest is expected to draw 1,500 walkers for a 15 km (nine mile) pledge walk. The event will be held from 8:30 a.m. until mid-afternoon. In Crescent Hill, the walk will travel east on Lexington Road from Alta Vista Road to Stilz Avenue, north on Stilz to Frankfort Avenue, east on Frankfort Avenue to Reservoir Avenue, north on Reservoir to Brownsboro Road and east on Brownsboro to Jarvis Lane. The third and fourth rest stops for the walk will be at the Southern Baptist Seminary and the Crescent Hill Park tennis courts. The start/finish area for Walktoberfest is the Water Tower.

Funds raised from walkers' pledges will go to support local education and service programs here in Kentucky as well as the national research program into the causes and cure of diabetes. For more information about Walktoberfest, call the American Diabetes Association, Kentucky Affiliate at 589-3837 or pick up a brochure at any Taylor Drug Store.

On the same day that Walktoberfest is being held, United Crescent Hill Ministries will be sponsoring Move-A-Long '92, another trip through the neighborhood for a good cause. Move-A-Long participants can run, walk, skate or skip on a 2.5 mile course (or a 1.2 mile shortcut) through Crescent Hill and Clifton, starting and finishing at the Kentucky School for the Blind. The entry fee for Move-A-Long '92 is $6.00, and all proceeds benefit UCHM's many efforts for senior citizens and others in need in our neighborhood. For more information on Move-A-Long '92, call 893-0346 or 894-8029.
